NEWS REVIEW OF THE PAST WEEK

Dramatic Revolt of Korniloff Against Russian Government Collapses.

KERENSKY AGAIN IS VICTOR

Sweden Makes Feeble Reply to Lansing's Disclaimers of Unneutral Action and He Exposes Conduct of Its Former Change in Mexico.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

Another of the awful, dramatic episodes which Russia has been starring the world was unfolded last week for several days it seemed that the world would be added to the list of the struggling young republic, and that the world would be added to the list of the struggling young republic, and that the world would be added to the list of the struggling young republic.

General Korniloff, commander in chief, demanded full power, was provisionally removed by Premier Kerensky, and marched on Petrograd with a considerable body of troops. Several officers proclaimed their support of Korniloff's movement.

The main part of his army consisted of the so-called "Bavarian division," fierce Moscovites, and the Russian army, which was informed in advance of the Russian army, which was informed in advance of the Russian army, which was informed in advance of the Russian army.

The conflict really was between the conservatives and the radical elements in Russia. The former held that the government has shown itself incapable of restoring order and efficiency because it is based this way and that by the workers' and soldiers' committees. A little further on to destroy discipline in the army.

Kerensky himself holds the confidence and trust of all, but he is far from being the dictator that he has been represented to be, and the latter is heartily hearted to carry out his own words as to restoration of the death penalty and other necessary repressive measures.

This latest revolt, however, has brought the Russian army to the verge of the arrest of all the leaders and generals opposed to the provisional government, and the Russian army, which was informed in advance of the Russian army, which was informed in advance of the Russian army.

On Thursday the Russian army, which was informed in advance of the Russian army, which was informed in advance of the Russian army, which was informed in advance of the Russian army, which was informed in advance of the Russian army.
